Appendix E: Australian University Theses on Child Protection Issues

Based on searches of the Australian Digital Project and individual searches of University's websites, the following 165 theses conducted or submitted between 1995 and 2004 were identified:

Chojnacki, A. (2003), Reactions to witnessed cases of child maltreatment on reporting behaviour: application of the general judgment and decision making model, Unpublished BPsych(Hons) thesis, University of Queensland.

Johnston, K. E. (1997), A study of the implementation of intervention planning policy within the Department of Families, Youth and Community Care: Sub-titled: That’s what you do (POLICY); but is that what you do? (PRACTICE). Unpublished MSoScWk thesis, University of Queensland.

Louis, A. (2001), Development and psychometric evaluation of the mother and child risk assessment (MACRO) forms to assess the risk to mother and infant (MACRO) 1 or mother and child (MACRO) 2 in the presence of maternal mental illness. Unpublished PhD thesis, Flinders University of South Australia.

Nakos, J. D. (1998), Understanding the influence of different interviewing techniques used with children, Unpublished BA(Hons) thesis, University of South Australia.

